SIZE 58,000 acres

Description

One of the most remarkable private ranches in Africa!

Located on the Laikipia plateau 45 minutes by private charter north of Nairobi, Ol Jogi is a wildlife sanctuary of 58,000 acres.

Ol Jogi hosts large herds of elephants, antelopes, reticulated giraffe, zebra, leopard, lion, cheetah, small cats, three species of primates and a stunningly diverse array of birds.

This game-rich ranch, however, has as its primary mission the protection of endangered species, and thus it provides sanctuary to a large population of black rhinos, over 10% of the world's Grevy's zebra and wild dogs.

The seven private residences overlook a series of pools and waterholes where a constantly changing cast of animals come down to drink.
