Description

Majestic mansion, in a modern minimalist design, located in the trendy area of Europe, La Finca. Pozuelo de Alarcón is an upper-class suburb of over 85,000 inhabitants situated ten kilometers west of the Moncloa District of Madrid.

This house/sculpture, is the result of its angular shapes, large windows, sizes and proportions characteristic of the most sophisticated properties, making it unique and unrepeatable given the design and contemporaneity of its lines.

The U-shaped design gives it an intuitive and exclusive distribution, with an emphasis on separating the different areas of life, leisure and service perfectly. The rigorous selection of materials, as well as the combination of these, endow this dwelling with a "Zen" atmosphere ensuring maximum comfort.

This landscaped property with sophisticated atmosphere, which has been taken care down to the smallest detail, has a lighted slate fountain leading to the entrance door of the dwelling. The entrance hall serves the function of dividing the different areas of the property. The entrance hall gives access to a spacious living room where light is the main protagonist since it delights us through the large windows, allowing us to see at the same time the majesty of the landscape that La Finca offers us.

All rooms in this magnificent property are outward facing. Even the basement is flooded with natural light given the slope of the plot where the property is located. The indoor pool and the spa area are also overlooking the garden.
